

RIVERDALE PARK

Sustainable Maryland Resource Center

The Town of Riverdale Park (TRP) community can find local resources on current and future actions that TRP is taking to improve sustainability on a hub for sustainability information on the TRP's website. In 2014, the TRP Sustainability Committee (also called TRP Green Team) created a separate website as a resource where the community could find information on sustainability. After the Mayor and Council authorized the redesign of TRP's website, since June 2017 TRP's hub for sustainability information was given a new home on the Town of Riverdale Park website.

This new page links to TRP's Sustainability Vision and Commitment, as well as containing a list of quick links to information on the TRP Green Team, community walks, and other programs and initiatives that TRP is taking to realize its sustainability vision.

The

website is also a resource for the community to access external information from the Prince George's County Department of the Environment and, of course, Sustainable Maryland. The website also provides residents with information on the Rain Check Rebate Program, and local businesses information on the Go Green Initiative.

The TRP Green Team knows the Sustainability Resource page can be a source of current information on planned sustainability events and a celebration of successful sustainability projects. The TRP Green Team plans to increase outreach by communicating more periodic, current plans and events on the sustainability webpage in tandem with TRP's promotion of sustainable and environmental actions through social media and the TRP Town Crier newsletter. Through these various resources, TRP is dedicated to an integrated approach to spread the word about what environmental actions are happening around TRP in order to engage the TRP community in realizing TRP's Sustainability Vision and Commitment.
